PRESS RELEASE

THE THURSDAY DATE, IT'S AT THE RESTAURANT LE DALÌ!

Paris, February 2024 – Subdued lighting showcasing the restaurant’s impressive columns and unique design, vibrant notes from the turntables and inspired dishes, Le Meurice hotel’s Restaurant Le Dalí changes its rhythm on Thursday evenings for relaxed, convivial dinners.

The regulars know this, the restaurant’s decor is unique: situated in the heart of the palace, designed by Philippe Starck and inspired by its most famous guest, Salvador Dali, a je ne sais quoi reigns there, accompanied, after nightfall, by live jazz.

Starting from the month of March, every Thursday evening, the restaurant changes its chords and gets into the swing of things with turntables for a soundtrack worthy of the place: “revamped” songs, enchanting notes and quickening rhythms, the tone is set as soon as you enter the hotel! Every week, a different DJ carries the guests away for a joyous evening that places the food at the centre of your conversations.

The chef Clémentine Bouchon proposes a menu that changes with the seasons. For a light snack or in the early evening the chef suggests Quiberon Bay oysters La Laurène, prawn fritters or the impressive potato soufflé, to share dipped in a caper-lemon sauce. Then comes the onion soup with a 34-month Comté cheese straw gratin or sole meunière, barely sprouted spinach shoots or the “Culoiselle” chicken supreme, stuffed mushrooms, Albufera sauce, you’ll find the classics of French cuisine prepared with the young chef’s more contemporary approach.

A “Surreal” setting thanks to its décor, a captivating atmosphere and delectable food, the Thursday date is now at the Restaurant Le Dali!
