The Dorchester Rooftop to launch Mediterranean restaurant for summer

Acclaimed chef Jean-Philippe Blondet to launch menu inspired by flavours of the Riviera

(LONDON) Following the successful launch in summer last year, The Dorchester Rooftop will return its terrace restaurant and bar with a Mediterranean concept by Jean-Philippe Blondet.

The restaurant and bar will be open daily for lunch and dinner, ready for guests to relax with a cocktail or glass of Champagne whilst listening to a live band and DJ in partnership with Molto Music Group, Yamaha Music London and Pioneer. Tables will be available for up to six guests and in anticipation for the unpredictable British weather, terrace umbrellas, heaters and blankets will be available.

In partnership with Courvoisier, a new selection of cocktails will be inspired by the picturesque towns dotted along the French and Italian Riviera, with an emphasis on their tempting range of herbs and fruits.

Jean-Philippe Blondet was born in Nice, in the South of France and has worked alongside Alain Ducasse since 2004. emotional connection between diner and dish. “I always tell a story through my dishes, and I’m excited to do this for guests of The Dorchester Rooftop this summer. Is there a better way to spend a few hours on a warm summer’s day than enjoying exceptional food, a glass of something cold, and spectacular views in great company?”

The Dorchester Rooftop first opened to coincide with The Dorchester’s 90th anniversary. Throughout the summer of 2021, The Dorchester Rooftop welcomed a series of chef residencies and culinary pop-ups, including: a British summertime menu by Tom Booton and The Grill; Sri Lankan dishes by Mario Perera; and the Polo Lounge at sister property, The Beverly Hills Hotel.
